

EMERGENCY MEDICINE TRAINING AT EASTERN HEALTH

Eastern Health has a reputation for excellence in emergency medicine training and we are committed to providing a supportive environment for emergency medicine training and a broad training experience on which to build your career.

We offer over 40 ED registrar positions across the three campuses of Box Hill, Maroondah and Angliss Hospitals, located in Melbourne's eastern suburbs. Our Emergency Departments are accredited for specialist emergency medicine training with the Australasian College for Emergency Medicine (ACEM).

We provide emergency medicine trainees with:

- a broad clinical experience
- varied patient case mix for over 160,000 annual attendances
- support by 40+ FACEMs
- accreditation for log book paediatric training
- a comprehensive and highly successful education program
- protected teaching time each week
- weekly continuous medical education
- programs for primary and fellowship examination preparation
- support for trainee research requirement (coursework pathway or trainee research project)
- financial support for educational courses and examinations

Eastern Health rotations may include:

- Anaesthetics
- Intensive Care
- General Medicine
- Hospital in the Home
- O&G
- Paediatrics
- Clinical skills post in Emergency Ultrasound (led by the Director of Melbourne University's Clinical Ultrasound Course, Dr Lindsay Bridgford.)

We facilitate external rotations to suit skills acquisition and individual training needs, including to:

- Royal Children's Hospital Emergency Department
- Royal Victorian Eye and Ear Hospital Emergency Department

Eastern Health has a record of excellent results in ACEM examinations, and our Primary and Fellowship examination programs are supported by very experienced tutors and ACEM examiners. Options at Eastern Health include senior registrar positions which are suited to trainees either pre or post fellowship examination. We are flexible in trying to accommodate trainee preference for duration of appointment, part time versus full time employment and desired rotations including non ED terms.
